About What the Family Needed. In this incandescent novel, a family's superpowers bestow not instant salvation but the miracle of accepting who they are. "Okay, tell me which you want," Alek asks his cousin at the outset of What the Family Needed. "To be able to fly or to be invisible." And soon Giordana, a teenager suffering the bitter fallout of her parents' divorce, finds that she can, at will, become as invisible as she feels. Later, Alek's mother, newly adrift in the ...

Steven Amsterdam's What the Family Needed is a straightforwardly told and magical novel of family, both heartbreaking and filled with compassion. The Sydney Morning Herald wrote of the book: "A wonderful novel: imaginative, intelligent, empathetic. It's like a cross between The Corrections and The Slap, except without any of the gloom or rage and with the addition of something that may or may ...
